THE SPANISH DEPARTMENT and ITS CURRICULUM

Spanish is the second-most spoken language in the world, increasingly recognized as a domestic U.S. language. The Spanish Department at Haverford engages its students in the study and exploration of the varied cultures in the Spanish-speaking world. Through the use of multiple disciplinary approaches, including literary and cultural studies, environmental studies, gender and sexuality studies, film studies, educational linguistics, linguistic anthropology, and creative writing courses, the program prepares students to understand and interpret Spanish, Latin American and U.S Latino texts and other modes of cultural expression, and to develop a strong competence in spoken and written Spanish. Majors and minors graduate from our program as strong critical thinkers who can write and make arguments effectively and persuasively. Spanish majors go on to succeed across a wide range of fields—as teachers, scholars, doctors, lawyers, and involved citizens.

Learning Goals

• Students interact effectively with Spanish speakers in Spanish-speaking countries.
• Students critically analyze literary, media and/or language-related products and processes.
• Students reflect on the world and on themselves through the lens of the Spanish language and cultures.
• Students develop interpretive, critical thinking and research skills through their study of the Spanish language and of Hispanic cultural narratives.

Haverford’s Institutional Learning Goals are available on the President’s website, at http://hav.to/learninggoals.

Curriculum

The department offers a broad range of courses:

• Elementary and Intermediate language courses (SPAN H001–SPAN H002, SPAN H100, SPAN H101, and SPAN H102) introduce and develop the basics of the language and emphasize the active use of Spanish for communication and understanding of the cultures that use it.
• Placement test results are mandatory; we expect all students to enroll in Spanish Department courses at the level of placement the department determines at the beginning of every academic year. On occasion, we will consider requests by individual students to move to a higher or lower placement level, after close and detailed consultation with the student’s advisor, the course instructor, and the department chair.

• Language courses in the department require attendance to all classroom sessions and all tutorials, which provide crucial complementary activities and are part of the student’s final grade.
• Advanced courses at the 200 level in literature, film, culture and civilization, and linguistics introduce significant themes and authors, while further developing Spanish language skills in reading, writing, speaking, and oral comprehension.
• Advanced courses at the 300 level explore in greater depth a specific line of inquiry; a literary, cultural, or historical issue; or a theme in Spanish and Spanish American writing and thought.
• Courses in English, with readings in English or English translation, which aim to bring to a wider audience and across disciplinary boundaries important themes, issues, and accomplishments of the Spanish-speaking world (i.e. Spanish 240 Introduction to Latin American Iberian Latinx Studies).

Major Requirements

• Six courses in Spanish and Spanish American literature or film, and
• Two semesters of SPAN H490 (Senior Seminar), in which students write a senior essay.
• Of the six required courses, three should be at the 200 level and three at the 300 level.
• A minimum of three of the 200- and 300-level courses must be taken at Haverford or Bryn Mawr; of these, at least two must be at the 300 level.
• Students who qualify by pre-college training or study abroad may substitute 300-level courses for the 200-level offerings.
• The program must include at least two courses at the 200 or 300 level that focus substantially on literature prior to 1898.

Students may not count Bryn Mawr courses SPAN B110 (Introducción al análisis cultural) and SPAN B120 (Introducción al análisis literario) toward major requirements.

Senior Project

The senior thesis research project in the Department of Spanish is a year-long process that serves as a
Senior Project Learning Goals
Students will develop and hone the following abilities in writing their senior theses:

- Conceptualizing a relevant research question.
- Using bibliographic resources and research tools appropriately.
- Analyzing literary and media products and/or certain language-related issues critically.
- Expressing, orally and in writing, complex ideas in correct Spanish; writing in a clear and compelling manner.
- Familiarizing themselves with and contributing to the relevant scholarship.
- Making an original contribution to the intellectual conversation with the text(s) and/or scholarship related to the subject.

Senior Project Assessment
The grade for the thesis is assigned by consensus by the entire department, with special consideration of the input from the advisor. A rubric (based on the goals described above) is applied to assess the students’ work. Students also do an oral presentation of their work.

Requirements for Honors
The department invites students it considers qualified to become candidates for honors during the second semester of their senior year. Honors candidates are chosen from among students who do superior work in upper-level literature and culture courses (with a 3.7 average). The department awards honors and high honors on the basis of the quality of the senior thesis. It is expected that an honors thesis will be about 35-40 pages in length.

Minor Requirements
- Six courses at the 200 or 300 level.
- A minimum of three of the six courses must be taken at Haverford or Bryn Mawr; of these, at least one must be at the 300 level.

- One of the six courses should focus substantially on literature prior to 1898.

Students may not count Bryn Mawr courses SPAN B110 (Introducción al análisis cultural) and SPAN B120 (Introducción al análisis literario) toward minor requirements.

Latin American, Iberian and Latino Studies Concentration
The Latin American, Iberian and Latino Studies Concentration is an interdisciplinary program for students majoring in a related discipline who wish to undertake a comprehensive study of the cultures of Spanish America, Brazil or the Iberian Peninsula (Spain and Portugal).

The Spanish Department supervises the concentration, which is available to students majoring in history, history of art, religion, political science, anthropology, psychology, economics, comparative literature, linguistics or Spanish. Working with the concentration coordinator, the student selects an array of six courses (as explained in detail in the relevant section of the Catalog) from among a list of approved courses relating to some aspect of LAILS, but also intersecting with the major. Then in the senior year the student incorporates the perspectives gleaned from these courses and disciplines into their senior capstone project.

For more information about the Latin American, Iberian and Latino Studies concentration and its requirements, please see the LAILS website: https://www.haverford.edu/lails

Affiliated programs
Accelerated Degree Program in Latin American Studies
Haverford joins other distinguished colleges and universities in an agreement with the Center for Latin American Studies at Georgetown University to participate in a five-year joint degree program. The cooperative agreement allows undergraduate concentrators in Latin American, Iberian and Latino Studies to pursue an accelerated course of study resulting in a graduate degree.

For detailed information about this opportunity, see the Latin American, Iberian and Latino Studies website.

Study Abroad
The department encourages students to spend a semester or a year studying in a Spanish-speaking context, in Argentina, Chile, Cuba, México, Perú and Spain.
Credit for courses taken abroad will be determined on a case-by-case basis. Students will need to provide documentation about the content (e.g., syllabi, papers, and exams) of these courses. No more than two courses taken abroad are usually considered toward the Spanish major and minor. Three courses may be approved under very exceptional circumstances, provided that at least two of the three courses are taken at a local university.

The language requirement cannot be completed while studying abroad.

Prizes

Manuel J. and Elisa Pi Asensio Prize: In recognition of their many contributions to Spanish and Spanish American studies, and of their tireless support of Haverford students—especially Latino and Latin American students—the Department of Spanish awards the Manuel J. and Elisa Pi Asensio Prize, to be given annually to the best senior essay submitted for the major in Spanish or for the concentration in Latin American, Latino, and Iberian Studies.

Prerequisite(s): SPAN H102 or 200-300 level in the placement test

SPAN H273 THE INVENTION OF PABLO NERUDA: POETICS AND POLITICS (1.0 Credit)
Roberto Castillo Sandoval
Division: Humanities
Domain(s): A: Meaning, Interpretation (Texts); B: Analysis of the Social World
This course deals with the principal works of Pablo Neruda's long career as a poet. Close readings of his major poems will be accompanied by an examination of the criticism and reception of Neruda's poetry at different stages of his trajectory. Special attention will be paid to the creation and elaboration of Neruda's image as a poet, cultural icon, and political figure in Chile and in the Spanish-speaking world. This course is conducted in Spanish. Prerequisite(s): SPAN 102, placement, or instructor consent (Offered: Fall 2019)

SPAN H304 THE CULTURE OF WORK AND THE LITERARY LABOR IN LATIN AMERICA: IDLE NARRATIVES (1.0 Credit)
Giselle Roman Medina
Division: Humanities
Domain(s): A: Meaning, Interpretation (Texts)
Students will examine cultural notions around work and leisure, focusing on contemporary Latin American literary and authorial projects. Literary labor will be the platform to reflect on the current progressive erasure of the line between productive time and free time. Prerequisite(s): SPAN 102 or placement into 200-300 level

SPAN H307 CREATIVE FICTION AND NON-FICTION WRITING WORKSHOP (1.0 Credit)
Roberto Castillo Sandoval
Division: Humanities
Domain(s): A: Meaning, Interpretation (Texts); B: Analysis of the Social World
A fiction- and creative nonfiction-writing workshop for students with advanced Spanish writing skills. The class is conducted as a combination seminar and workshop, with time devoted to discussion of work by established authors and by students. The course will focus on the development of essential elements of craft and technique in fiction and non-fiction writing (point of view, voice, dialogue, narrative and rhetorical structure, etc.) We will focus more on how fiction and non-fiction stories work rather than on what they mean. This writerly perspective can be useful for reconsidering and judging pieces of writing long accepted as “great,” as well as a practical method for developing individual styles. Short fiction, crónicas, personal essays, travel narratives, and memoirs are some of the forms we will work on. At the end of the semester, each student will produce a dossier with four edited, full-length pieces of original writing, consisting of a combination of fiction and non-fiction work. Previous experience in creative writing is recommended, although it is not necessary. Prerequisite(s): At least one 300-level course in Spanish, or instructor consent

SPAN H308 BLACKNESS IN LATIN AMERICA (1.0 Credit)
Staff
Division: Humanities
Domain(s): A: Meaning, Interpretation (Texts); B: Analysis of the Social World
This course offers a historical and cultural approach to blackness in Latin America. Understood as an epistemological discourse and as embodied practices, blackness has been at the center of Latin American identity since colonial times. Taught in Spanish. Prerequisite(s): 200 level Spanish course

SPAN H311 GREEN LATIN AMERICA: CULTURE AND THE ENVIRONMENT (1.0 Credit)
Staff
Division: Humanities
Domain(s): A: Meaning, Interpretation (Texts); B: Analysis of the Social World
An ecocritical approach to the study of the Latin American human and non-human environment, and the cultural practices that address this interdependence in the context of its economic, political and social realities. This course is conducted in Spanish. Crosslisted: Spanish, Environmental Studies. Prerequisite(s): One 200-level course or instructor consent.

SPAN H314 SPANISH IN THE US: LANGUAGE, IDENTITY AND POLITICS (1.0 Credit)
Ana López-Sánchez

Division: Humanities
Domain(s): A: Meaning, Interpretation (Texts); B: Analysis of the Social World
An examination of the social histories, geopolitical forces and linguistic ideologies that have shaped Spanish and its study in the U.S. This course will be taught in Spanish. Prerequisite(s): Course at the 200-level in Spanish or Linguistics
(Offered: Spring 2020)

SPAN H316 WOMEN AND THE ARMED STRUGGLE IN LATIN AMERICA (1.0 Credit)
Aurelia Gómez Unamuno

Division: Humanities
Domain(s): A: Meaning, Interpretation (Texts); B: Analysis of the Social World
An examination of socialist armed struggles in 1970s, women’s rights and feminist movements in Latin America. A comparative study of literary texts, testimonial and documentary films addresses theoretical issues such as Marxism, global feminism, hegemony and feminisms produced in the periphery. This course is conducted in Spanish. Cross-listed: Spanish, Comparative Literature
(Offered: Spring 2020)

SPAN H320 SPANISH AMERICAN COLONIAL WRITINGS (1.0 Credit)
Roberto Castillo Sandoval

Division: Humanities

SPAN H490 SENIOR DEPARTMENTAL STUDIES (1.0 Credit)

Division: Humanities
Domain(s): A: Meaning, Interpretation (Texts); B: Analysis of the Social World

The course will consist of two one-semester parts. The first, taken in the fall, will have the format of a seminar under the supervision of one Spanish department faculty member. The purpose of this seminar is to prepare students for the research and writing their senior theses by 1) enhancing and refining the reading tools and critical approaches to texts in Spanish acquired in previous courses; 2) elucidating and contextualizing relevant aspects of literary history, theory, and culture 3) determining the thesis topic, key secondary sources and approach to be deployed in writing the thesis, and 4) polishing the skills and methods for successful research and proper use of available resources. Problems in literary and cultural analysis-selected with a view to their pertinence in relation to the group’s interests-will be presented through close readings of works from various periods and genres and through selected works of criticism or theory. The Spring semester will involve the process of writing the thesis. Students work under the supervision of individual professors
Offered: Spring 2020
